

THE ZOO

ELIZABETH B

One day I had gone to the zoo.
I wanted to see something new.
And so I said not to myself,
“Mother can I please see an elf?”

Next day I had gone to the zoo.
“Oh mother dear, don’t make me coo.
I want to see new things right now like maybe a fat flying cow.

Next day I had gone to the zoo.
I beg my mom for something new such as a dog in pink, lace trim or a bat that's taking a swim.

Next day I had gone to the zoo.
My mom said, “Oh listen to you.
If you want to see something new just look in the mirror at you.”

Breeze

by Abby G.

The wind billows across the land

Disturbing the stillness of fall

Swaying oaks and bushes

Rippling the water too

Disturbing the stillness of fall

Chilling the air

Rippling the water too

Refreshing the world

Chilling the air

Swaying oaks and bushes

Refreshing the world

The wind billows across the land

Football

By Evan H

It's fourth down and goal
And our team's down by six
Our good players are out
And our team is a mix

We all huddle up
And call the best play
Then line up real fast
There's no time to delay

As the Q.B. calls hike
The line comes to blitz
But the running back jukes
And scores with no hits

We dog pile quick
And then get back up
Then line up and kick
To win the champ cup

In the Closet of My Bedroom

By Will S.

In the closet of my bedroom,
I am searching for my sock.
“Have I found it? Is it here?”
But no, it’s just a clock.

In the closet of my bedroom,
I am looking for my hat.
“Is that it? That thing right there?”
But no, it’s just my bat.

In the closet of my bedroom,
I have come to retrieve my coat.
“Can it be? Right there in the corner?”
But no, it’s just a toy boat.

In the closet of my bedroom,
I am trying to find my shoe.
I doubt that I will find it, but what do you know? I do!

When Summer Comes

By: Maddy S

When summer comes,
Girls put on their small jean skirts,
The boys get covered with dirt,
And getting a sunburn really hurts!

When summer comes,
There is no school
Everybody is at the pool,
And if not you really are a fool

When summer comes,
You make sand castles at the beach
And dig a hole, the bottom you cant reach,
After you enjoy a nice juicy peach

When summer comes,
Little kids are laughing when the find a clover
Teenagers are playing red rover
Toddlers playing with our retriever Grover
Sadly we go inside because summer is over

PUPPIES

BY: AILIE O

TAILS WAGGING HAPPILY,

BOUNCING UP AND DOWN,

BEGGING TO PLAY WITH YOU,

WITH THEIR CUTE PUPPY FACE,

BOUNCING UP AND DOWN,

TONGUES HANGING OUT,

WITH THEIR CUTE PUPPY FACE,

BARKING LOUDLY,

BOUNCING UP AND DOWN,

BEGGING TO PLAY WITH YOU,

WITH THEIR CUTE PUPPY FACE,

TAILS WAGGING.

The Lake

By: Sabrina L

There once was a fellow named Tim

Whose dad never taught him to swim

He fell off a dock

And sunk like a rock

And that was the end of him

Snowflake

By Lauren S.

Like spectacular sapphires, snowflakes stream swiftly, sinking into a sea of similar,
small, sparkling stars.

Seeking sense, but solo they are but a spark on the sun. And as a silver seed sails silently, you stare, spellbound,
as the sensational sight shows before you.
